To Whom it may concern,

I have listened to Daniel Berman perform, and consider him an outstanding musician who plays his instrument with sensitivity and authority. His exploration of neglected or new repertory reflects a musical curiosity and probing mind - an added asset to his artistry. I think he is deserving of support and recognition, to further an already dedicated career. I hope he receives this consideration, and if I can be of further help toward this end, please contact me.

With cordial thanks -

Morton Gould
